Greg Wilson is 17 and he's mad about sport. He's the captain of his school football team and he plays for the hockey team. He's also good at downhill skiing, his favourite winter sport. What's more, Greg's just finished a scuba diving course. 'One of my dreams is to visit Australia next summer and go scuba diving there,' he says. Greg would like to do more extreme sports as well: he wants to learn to do parachute jumps. 'My parents think it's dangerous, but I'd love to jump out of a plane!'

Greg's sister Tanya likes sport, but she isn't mad about it. 'I'm not good enough to play football for a team, but I often play in the park with my friends,' she says. 'We laugh when someone scores a goal against their own team. We enjoy the game, but it isn't serious!' What about other sports? 'I like cross-country skiing. Mum, Dad and Greg also enjoy it. It keeps us fit and we have a great time together. I don't want to do extreme sports – but scuba diving is fantastic! I've already had two lessons in a swimming pool. I haven't been scuba diving in the sea yet, but I'll be ready to go scuba diving next summer!'

Read Jade's blog about sports in British schools.

Word blog: Top school sports

1 My blog Read the text. Match paragraphs 1–4 to photos A–F. There are two extra photos.

I'm sport mad! We do lots of sports at school in Britain. The most popular school sports are field hockey, football, netball, rugby, cricket and swimming. What sports do you do at school?

1 The most popular sport is football, of course! Players have to try to ¹ _____ the ball into the other team's goal. They mustn't touch the ball, but they can use their heads. Look at the photo: my school team is red and green!

2 In swimming lessons, children have to wear a swimsuit, a swimming cap and ² _____. The girl in the photo is my sister, Kate. She has just passed her swimming test. She can now swim 100 metres and the teacher is going to give her a swimming badge. Congratulations, Kate!

3 We also learn to play hockey at school. You play field hockey (not ice hockey) with a hockey ³ _____ on grass. You can hit the ball hard to try and score a goal, pass it to another player or 'dribble' it. (When you 'dribble', you move the ball with short hits.) You have to be brave to play hockey because the ball is hard and it often hits the players' legs. Ouch! The photo comes from our school competition last summer.

4 Have you ever played rugby? The player with the ball has to carry the ball, pass it or kick it to ⁴ _____ points. Players fall a lot, but they don't mind getting dirty!

Netball is a popular sport for girls. There are seven players in each team and they have to try to throw the ball into the other team's net. Netball is similar to basketball, but players can't run with the ball.

Cricket is a summer game. There are eleven players in each team. Players usually wear white trousers and shirts. The rules of the game aren't easy, and some people think it's boring! In the photo, one player has thrown the ball and another player is trying to hit the ball with a bat.
